Agenda

Meeting Context: There are a range of options state policy makers may consider to encourage health plans and hospital systems to invest in addressing prevention, health-related social needs, and social drivers of health not only at the beneficiary level, but at the community level as well. This webinar will explore what states can do with Medicaid policy, specifically MCO community investment requirements and hospital regulation policies, to better align community investments to improve population health and well-being.

1:00-1:05 Welcome and Overview

- Jeffrey Levi, GW Funders Forum on Accountable Health

1:05-1:20 Financial levers that may be used to require Medicaid MCOs to invest in communities they serve, highlighting various states

- Daniel Meuse, State Health and Value Strategies

1:20-1:40 State efforts to encourage hospital systems to invest in communities, beyond federal requirements, including Oregon as an example

- Elinor Higgins, NASHP
